According to a recent Cochrane systematic review, supplementation with at least 1 g of calcium is associated with significantly lower risk of pregnant women developing pre-eclampsia and preterm birth among women with low calcium intakes.

Remember that labour can be unpredictable and despite planning, there are of course risks. If you need to stand for a length of time, move around a bit every few minutes. What is early childhood intervention? This will undoubtedly have an effect on your mood and how you feel generally.

An iron supplementation programme may form part of an integrated programme. Cochrane systematic review assessing the benefits and harms of intermittent supplements of iron alone or in combination with folic acid or other vitamins and minerals in pregnant women on neonatal and pregnancy outcomes found that there was no detectable difference between women taking iron supplements intermittently and those receiving daily supplements with regard to maternal anaemia at term, the risk of having a low-birth-weight or preterm baby or mortality. She can then switch to the standard antenatal dose to prevent recurrence of anaemia.
