Modern preservationists and revivalists usually observe the four 'fire festivals' of the Gaelic Calendar, and some also observe local festivals that are held on dates of significance in the different Celtic nations. The Great Mother grieved for her son and the world became dark and cold.

Sacrifices are typically offered to gods and ancestors by burning. After the harvest, however, Jarilo is unfaithful to his wife and she vengefully slays him, returning him to the underworld and renewing enmity between Perun and Veles. By celebrating the festivals you attune yourself to the cycles of nature creating an inner calm and oneness with all things.
