I love the facts of I could not predict what would happen, felt I personally knew the characters, captured my in I started reading A Change of Heart and it captured my interest immediately. Can these two find a happily ever after when their lives are so very different?

I actually ended up liking this devotional a bit better than the previous two. The narration also told of the characters thinking or feeling things that didn't quite fit with what is going on. The reason I read Christian fiction is to avoid the darker part of life. It is so refreshing to read something new. I think this debut is amazing.
